

MD-PhD Programme presents

MEDICAL SCIENTIST GRAND ROUNDS

Title: Systemic Mastocytosis - A Condition Not To Be Missed

DATE: 2nd May 2018, Wednesday
TIME: 7:30 AM – 8:30 AM
VENUE: Academia @ AC3-1 (level 3)
Address: 20 College Road, Singapore 169856

SPEAKERS

Alfonso TAN GARCIA
MD-PhD Programme
Duke-NUS Medical School

Biography: Alfonso obtained his Bachelor of Science degree in Biochemistry from Imperial College London and Masters of Science in Integrated Immunology from the University of Oxford. He recently completed his PhD studies with Prof. Antonio Bertolotti in Duke-NUS Medical School discovering a role of pro-inflammatory CD206+ macrophages in viral-related liver disease.

Dr. TAN Yan Chin
Registrar
Department of Haematology
Singapore General Hospital

Biography: Dr. Tan is currently a Haematology Registrar in Singapore General Hospital.

Associate Prof. Charles CHUAH
Senior Consultant
Department of Haematology
Singapore General Hospital

Biography: A/Prof. Chuah is currently a Senior Consultant at the Department of Haematology and Director of the Department of Clinical Translational Research at Singapore General Hospital. He is also Associate Professor at the Cancer and Stem Cell Biology Programme at Duke-NUS Medical School. His research focuses on the study of drug resistance in chronic myeloid leukaemia and strategies, both clinical and pre-clinical, to overcome resistance and to improve responses.

Breakfast will be served. No registration required. For enquiries please contact Lilian Poon at 6601 3779.